THE SIGNS OF JEWISH HISTORY

Historical sources testify that Jews lived in the Anykščiai region since the 16th century.

1

ROUTE STOPS:

1. Kurkliai synagogue. S. Neries str. 4A, Kurkliai village, Anykščiai distr.
Synagogue in Kurkliai is significant on the regional level. This is one of the most original wooden synagogues in Lithuania and the only synagogue that is significant on the regional level.
2. Old Jewish Cemetery. Kęstučio str., Anykščiai.
There are about 200 tombstones with inscriptions in the Yiddish language. The presence of this cemetery suggests that the Jewish community already existed at the end of the 16th century.
3. Former synagogues. Sinagogos str., Anykščiai.
Synagogue complex was in the centre of Anykščiai, the Old Town at present. The Sinagogos Street is the only street in the old town of Anykščiai which has preserved the historical name that was given by the local Jewish community at the beginning of the twentieth century.
4. Jewish bank. Vilniaus str. 5, Anykščiai.
The Jews began to return to Anykščiai and live in the wrecked homes after the First World War. Financial support was provided by their relatives in Africa or America and by the newly established bank.
5. Rapoportai Brothers' store.
A. Baranausko sq 6, Anykščiai.
Jews in Anykščiai were mostly small traders and had many small shops. Mejeras and Šepšelis Rapoportai had a craft shop and wood business.
6. Rudolph Baranik's bench.
S. Daukanto str., Anykščiai.
Rudolf Baranik (1920–1998) grew up in Anykščiai and lived in the United States. He is considered as protest artist, continuing the tradition of abstract painting and his art is considered as political abstractionism.
7. The massacre of Jews and the burial place.
Liudiškių str., Anykščiai.
When the city was occupied by the German army in 1941, the persecution of Jews began. By the order of the government, all the Jews were listed and their places of residence were identified. Jews were forced to go to synagogues and then to labour camps.
8. The forest of Popas. J. Biliūno str., Anykščiai.
This is the place which was transformed into ghetto on the 8th of July in 1941. Hundreds of Jews were captured there.
